BRIDAL FETE OF GLADYS BUTLER IS BLEST WITH PERFECT DAY

By Rita Stuart.

Nature blessed Gladys Butler with a perfect day for her bridehood. Amid the setting of a Vineyard lanscape, with merry zephyrs and a cloudless sky, the rose of "Mohu" became the bride of Theodore Waterbury Ellis. The ceremony was one of the most charming in many seasons.

In the open air, under the pergola of the beauteous gardens on the Butler summer estate, it took place. The orchestra was concealed under greenery back of the impromptu altar, and at its first strains of the Lohengrin procession-al, the bride stepped into the garden. Ahead walked her sister, Miss Miriam, and between bride and maid of honor the two little flower girls, Mollie, four, and Beatrice, six years, sisters of the bride, in whose pathway they strewed rose petals.

The sun was less than two hours past its meridian when the knot was tied by Rev. Florus Streeter, formerly of Edgartown and now of New Bedford, the single ring being used. The ceremony was all the more impressive because of its simplicity, and imaginative mind of artist could not have visioned scene more striking or beautiful.

The reception took place under the pergola. Almost the first to greet the couple were Governor and Mrs. Coolidge. There followed a line of several hundred guests.

First in the receiving line stood the father of the bride, William M. Butler, former State Senator. Mrs. Butler also assisted, and every guest was personally greeted not

Sergt. Gifford, War Hero, Is Engaged to Miss Doris A. Cottle

By Evelyn M. Adams.

One of the most interesting of the season's social announcements is that of the engagement of Sergeant Flavel M. Gifford of West Tisbury to Miss Doris Allen Cottle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Zadoc A. Cottle of Fairhaven.

SAWS THROUGH WINDOW BAR IN JAIL; MAKES A THIRD ESCAPE

"Joe Lefthander" has gone and done it again.

In other words, Joseph Swarts, with a record of two previous escapes from his cell, has made the third getaway of his career. And this escape is the cleverest of them all. Further, it is the sensation of Edgartown, and in fact all Dukes County.

Last Sunday night "Lefthander" was sleeping serenely---or seemed to be---in his cell at the Edgartown county jail. Keeper Eben E. Earl, whose resignation was recently asked as a result of the previous flight that "Lefthander" made from his bailiwick, made his inspection and did the usual nightly sewing up stunt of locking the door.

The key was put in his trousers pocket. The keeper went to bed, with the trousers---pocket still containing the key---in his room.

The authorities are convinced that somehow an accomplice of "Lefthander" got that key while the keeper was asleep and unlocked the cell door, which permitted "Lefthander" the freedom of the corridor.

"Lefthander" needed no aid after that. He did the disappearing act, through the barred window of the corridor, into the free world outside.

The authorities are further convinced that "Lefthander," who was allowed the freedom of the corridor graduate of Vineyard Haven High School and was at M. A. C., Amherst, previous to the draft. He went to Camp Devens Oct. 1917, leaving the U. S. for France in Jan. 1918, landing at Liverpool. The first part of the time in France was spent at Le Havre and Blois, doing various kinds of work. Found the weather there suitable for the farmers to be ploughing, where here it was about the coldest ever known. He was shortly assigned for duty at Tours where he was in the office of the Chief Quarter Master for a year and a half doing work in the statistical department. Was made Sergt. in February 1919. When work was lighter he was allowed to teach the three R's in the Post School, every afternoon, for four months. Had two leaves of absence, the first time going to the Brittany coast where the boys visited places of historic interest under the direction of the Y. M. C. A. One of the most noted Casinos there, the High Life, where Harry Thaw lost thousands of dollars in one night was taken over by the Y. M. C. A. and made into a good amusement place for the soldiers on leave. Sergt. Gifford feels that too much cannot be said in favor of the Y. M. C. A. On his second leave, which was last June, went through Belgium to Germany, up the Rhine, to Luxemburg, through Alsace Lorraine and over the line into Switzerland with some French civilians. Then he went to the city of Nice, on the Mediterranean sea and to the famous gambling resort of Monte Carlo in Monaco. There are no taxes collected there but the government receives an immense revenue from the proceeds of the gambling resorts, although no citizen of Monaco is allowed to participate. The next point in the trip was Italy, then along the Pyrenees to Bordeaux returning to Tours, leaving there July 9 and sailing from Brest on the Martha Washington.

The reasons why Mr. Collins should be nominated to represent Dukes County in the Legislature instead of Mr. Look.

I propose in the next issue of this paper to show reasons why I should be elected to represent this district in the Legislature the coming year, rather than Mr. Look. Should Mr. Look desire to dispute any or all of these statements I will meet him in any public hall on the Island at any time he may name and debate them with him.

1st. Mr. Look is an active candidate for an appointment by the Governor on one of the State Commissions.

Should he be elected as representative and afterward receive an appointment he would be obliged to resign his seat in the Legislature.

A new election would have to be called, putting the county to considerable trouble and expense.

This election could not be called until the Legislature meets in January, and the man elected could not qualify and take his seat till some time in March, thus depriving the district of representation till after nearly all the committee hearings had been held and many of the reports acted on.

Some comparative results:

The fishing intesests of the district have been very much interested in the repeal of the law prohibiting setting of traps in Buzzards Bay. This was actively sought during Mr. Look's term of office, 1911-1914.

No results.

The repeal was accomplished while I was representative.

The gunners have been much interested in the passage of legislation extending the open season for duck shooting.

No results.

It has been extended as far as the Massachusetts Legislature could do it during my terms. This now only awaits the sanction of the Department of Agriculture at Washington to make it effective.

More next week.

Yours respectfully,
Benjamin G. Collins,
Edgartown, Mass.

Au Revoir

Now comes Labor Day and its rush, and its aftermath of daily leave-takings as summer residents depart to be home in the city in time for the opening of school and college. And to all that go, after months spent in the spell of a Vineyard summer, we extend a hearty godspeed, and a wish that another summer will see them here in all good health again.

It is always with the more regret that we say farewell at this season, knowing as we do that all that go now will miss the splendor of the months to come. For what more glorious than September on the Vineyard, except it be October? And then the invigoration of the clear November days, the sad days and the glad days still to come and yet to be enjoyed.

To us the happiest part of the Vineyard season is upon our threshold, happier even than the joyous summertime.

Who can describe the clear, crisp atmosphere of stereoscopic clarity—the changing colors of nature later on, the brilliance of sunrise and sunset, the purplish haze that hangs over wide stretches from the abundance of heather flowers? And in the late Fall, the cool evenings and “color fires ever changing” of the burning driftwood?

Truly, a garden spot, an Island of Blessings!

A Record-Breaking Season

This has been a record-breaking season, and there is every reason to regard it as a successful season. Hotels and homes have been filled to overflowing with guests—porches and hammocks and tents have had to be utilized as never before. Never so many automobiles—the scrimmage-rush for reservations is ample evidence. Incidentally, it may be stated that the steamboat company has been forced, in order to get some of the surplus cars from the Island, to change the Uncatena's weekday afternoon schedule, so beginning next Tuesday the steamer will leave Oak Bluffs at 3.30 and 5.30 p.m. for Woods Hole only. These trips, made daily, will help meet the demand of reservations for automobile space after next Monday.

To return—it has been a big season, and in all probability 1920 will bring an even greater one.

The lesson of the season of 1919 to the Vineyard is to prepare to take care of next year.

Begin the preparations this Fall.

A One-Way Street Plan.

It might be suggested, as a solution of one traffic problem, that Wharf street, between Main and Water streets, be made a one-way thoroughfare. It strikes us that this is feasible; and whether or not desirable, can only be learned after discussion.

What do you think of it?

It might be even too late to put such a plan into operation this season, but it is worth considering.

Hero Saves Drowning Child.

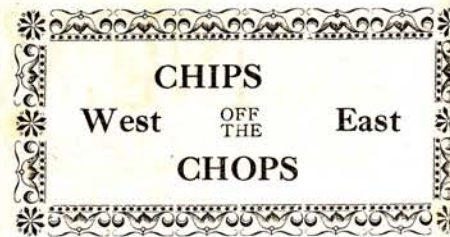

Arthur Jerlinus, second mate of the Uncatena, is in line for a Carnegie medal, having qualified as a hero last Sunday.

A child, on the Oak Bluffs wharf with its father, missed the parent and in its eager hunt failed to note danger, and walked off the wharf, falling into the water. The child had gone down several times, it is said, and bystanders, including the father, shouted for assistance.

No second call was needed for Jerlinus. From his station on the steamer, which was doing Sunday duty, he rushed up the wharf and dived for the drowning child.

The little one was rescued.

Jerlinus is back on his job, as modest as ever.

George D. Flynn, Jr., tells the best post-July-the-First story we have heard. Here it is: “Here’s one,” avers George D., Junior, “a Vineyard farmer told me on himself. He had a sick horse on his hands, and bethought him of egg and milk to help the ailing steed. The farmer himself, so he stated, acted the doctor and did the dosing daily. He began to note a certain peculiar aroma, which, spirituously speaking, was neither eggish nor milkish. It smelt like the stuff; he tasted it—it was the stuff. He asked his wife about it, and she explained that there had been locked up in the family medicine chest for years, a half pint, and she thought it might help the horse as a stimulus taken with the egg-and-milk.

“The farmer paused in his story ‘And what,’ I asked him, ‘happened to that horse?’ The narrator made the gesture of lifting a glass to his lips, and said dryly (or wetly, depending on how you look at it):

“The horse died.”

Somehow, Alphonso Smith of Vineyard Haven, got word that his friend, William Ritchie, of Oak Bluffs, had fallen overboard last Saturday. So Alphonso schemed a joke, and sent his pal a message about as follows:

“Buy a pair of water-wings, and charge to my account. Safety First.”

A Special Request.

WRECK INQUIRY SENSATION TO COME SOON, IS REPORT HERE

Information comes from the mainland to the effect that the long awaited sensation in the Port Hunter investigation may be "sprung" at any time and that an arrest or arrests may result.

It is reported that the investigators of the graft division of the army intelligence have made a most thorough inquiry and that abundant fact has been gleaned bearing on matters on which the government is anxious to throw fullest light possible.

In regard to the standing of the wreck itself, as to whether goods salvaged since June 28, the day the Mercantile Wrecking Company quit operations, belong to the government or to the salvagers, no public official word has come. However, rumor has it that one of the salvagers received telephoned word to "go ahead and sell." Still, no public announcement has been made of Washington's ruling in this particular.

Writes of Smartest Yankee's Strategy

By Capt. William B. Claghorn

One of the smartest Yankees I ever heard of was the captain of a whaling ship which ran afoul of the Confederate Ship Shenandoah, which was then burning whale vessels. This smart Yankee skipper be-thought him of a stratagem. When he saw the Shenandoah coming his way he up and hoisted his smallpox flag. Then to carry it still further he signalled to the Shenandoah, asking that ship if it could do anything for the stricken craft.

The Shenandoah officers held a consultation and must have decided against risk of contagion, for they drew off and left the smart Yankee skipper severely alone.

On next Saturday Colonel William B. Rochester, who has just returned from long duty in France, is to be married to Miss Louise Macy, of Bloomfield, N. Y. The ceremony will be performed on the Rochester farm at Big Indian, in the Catskills, and the officiating clergyman will be Rev. Mr. Remick, a neighbor of the groom. Colonel Rochester is well known on the Vineyard.

The Community League will hold a sing in Association Hall at 8 o'clock next Friday night. Professor John A. O'Shea will lead the singing, and Miss-Saltonstall, who returned from service in France some time ago, has been invited to narrate her experiences.

Mr. and Mrs. Austin R. Tower and children, Alden, Miriam and Osborne, go to Sackville, N. B., for a month's stay. It is the first vacation Mr. Tower has had in a number of years.

Misses Meserve and Lockwood have been occupying the H. L. Smith bungalow on the North Shore. They leave for the mainland tomorrow.

Captain Aaron E. Tower, a cousin of Austin R. Tower, was in port with his three-master Barbara B., just back from a six months trip. Captain Tower later sailed for the Provinces.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Billings had as their guest Lieutenant Thomas Cabot of the Back Bay.

GAY HEAD

Nature hath prised thee beautifully. Mark
 Of deepest blush upon one cheek, and blanched
 The other! Red of life's blood firmly stanch'd
 In cliff eternal—white of snow set stark
 By contrast 'mid thy many hues, from dark
 To light. Full face illumed, rainbow-like; laved
 By sun thy wrinkled brow. As if they craved
 Thy tints mad waves dash angrily, nor hark
 To scornful word of thine, "Be still!"

An arc

Of hope art thou, despite the wind and sea,
 And promise—pledge of proud defiance saved
 From Time's remorseless change, that man in thee
 Might gain new faith, heart quickened, soul set free
 Beholding here the beauty of Infinity.

BRIDAL FETE

only by her and Mr. Butler, but by the bridal couple.

The bride was attractive, fit picture for lasting canvas. Her wedding gown was of heavy white satin, neck cut square and with rose point lace trimming; long gathered sleeves, long Watteau train of satin, and she wore a fan-fashioned tulle veil caught up with orange blossoms. The bride carried a shower bouquet of swansonia and she wore plain white satin slippers. The string of pearl beads she wore was the groom's gift to her.

The bride's traveling gown was navy blue serge with sable trimming. Her hat was a feathered toque.

The gown of the maid of honor was of blue organdie, lace trimmed, with short sleeves and white cuffs, turned back. She wore a large leg-horn hat and carried yellow daisies.

The two cunning flower girls, just as cute and cherubic as could be, wore pink organdie and white hats. Mrs. Butler wore orchid georgette, a most charming costume, and hat and slippers to match.

James Taussig of St. Louis was best man, and the only other attendants were Ralph W. Ellis, Jr., brother of the groom, and Lloyd Booth of Youngstown, O., who were ribbon-bearers and ushers.

After the reception, which was wholly informal and all the more delightful because of it, there were dancing and refreshments in the Butler summer home, while the bride, with her intimate friends about her off in a nook of the piazza, cut her cake and distributed the slices to her girl chums.

Meanwhile, the numerous guests enjoyed the Butler hospitality, and were shown the lavish outlay of gifts to the bridal couple.

The newly-weds sprang their "surprise," being rowed away in a dory to a waiting catboat which took them to Woods Hole, where an auto awaited their coming.

After a honeymoon spent in motoring through New England and Canada, the couple will make their home in Springfield.

The bride is the oldest daughter of former Senator Butler, and the groom is an attorney, being a graduate of Harvard, 1910. He served in France, attaining a captaincy in the trench mortar division, U. S. A.

Sayres to Be Here in 1920.

So well pleased are the Francis Bowes Sayres with their Vineyard home and surroundings that they have taken the same house for next summer. This is a tribute to the Vineyard's attractive qualities.

Next summer in all likelihood the Vineyard will see something of the President. The rush of business at Washington has so far prevented his visiting the Sayres this season, although he may come this Fall. Several times the past week rumor had it that the Mayflower anchored off the Island, but the keen interest died away as it became known that the reports were ill founded.

BOLT HITS BARN AND HOUSES IN WORST STORM HERE IN YEARS

In a severe electrical storm Sunday night last and Monday morning, lightning struck several Vineyard homes and did considerable damage.

The most serious was on the farm of William G. Smith of North Tisbury. Here a bolt hit the barn, setting it afire. The flames destroyed a horse and a breeding sow, farm implements and the summer's cut of hay, and a touring car belonging to Mr. Smith's son, William H.

The latter, from his home nearby, saw the flames in time to get out and save two cows by pulling them from the barn.

The Smiths were the worst sufferers in the storm.

At Vineyard Haven a bolt struck the magnificent old tree in front of the home of Captain B. C. Cromwell, tearing the bark and sending big bits of it with almost-shrapnel force in all directions. A number of large pieces drove through front windows, penetrating into the rooms and scattering even to the top of the stairway.

At Edgartown the summer home of Professor Marcus W. Jernegan of Chicago University was struck. The lightning tore away shingles and plaster, went down through the centre of the house and out of the side near the telephone wire.

"Damage very slight," said the Professor, later. "Nobody hurt or shocked and only a few shingles and a little plaster gone."

The home of Joseph Cecile, Vineyard Haven, was struck, the bolt turning things topsy-turvy in the kitchen, but occupants of the house escaped injury.

Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Stickney of Boston are guests of Mrs. S. Henry Hadley at Heatherdune, West Chop, until Labor Day.

CHILMARK

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur F. Winslow are on the mainland for a short time and Mrs. Lyman Cottle is visiting at the home of the James A. Mayhews.

There was an exceptionally fine entertainment given at the Chilmark Town Hall last Tuesday evening by summer talent for the benefit of the local library, which netted the neat sum of about $66.00. Chilmark has a splendid library for so small a town and it is very well filled with the latest publications of all kinds, and with this sum of money to help along, more attractions will probably soon be added to the cosy little room.

An exceptionally long and vivid thunder storm visited Menemsha last Sunday and Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Sintram J. F. Strong were guests of the Francis Risks at "Look-Inn," Menemsha, last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jared Mayhew and the Allen Flanders were guests at the wedding at "Mohu" last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Cowen have been entertaining Mr. Cowen's mother, Mrs. James Cowen of Fairhaven, and sister, Mrs. Harry Wing, for a few days.

Don Perham returned to West Tisbury to visit his grandmother, Mrs. Mary Cleveland, after spending several weeks at Menemsha with his cousins, Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Look and the Percy Cowens.

Mrs. Kate Tucker and daughter, Miss Hazel, have returned to their home in Providence after several weeks' vacation at Menemsha.

E. L. Child and Frederic Condy have returned to Worcester after a two weeks' vacation at Chilmark.

Rev. and Mrs. Gomer R. Lewis and daughter were the guests of the D. R. Campbells one day last week.

Miss Rhoda Scott and friend, Miss Ethel Rogers, are registered at the Homestead for a brief vacation.

Donald and Stanley Poole are spending some time with their uncle, C. M. Poole, at Quitsa.

Mrs. F. H. Mayhew and daughter have returned to their home in New York after having spent the summer with Mrs. Clara C. Mayhew.

Miss Edwards Promoted.

Miss Mary L. Edwards, daughter of Madison Edwards, chaplain of the Bethel, has returned to her work after a ten day furlough spent here. She went to the United States Recuperative Hospital at West New Haven, where for some time she worked among the 400 patients in the tuberculosis department.

The soldier lads gave Miss Edwards a royal welcome on her return, the general greeting being, "Here comes back our smiling girl again." She has had tremendous success in her hospital work.

Miss Edwards was in the hospital but a short time when she received orders which transferred her to Atlanta to assist in educational work among the wounded soldiers in that city. Four other young women were transferred to the same work with her, a reward for duty well performed in brightening the corners of life for heroes suffering from shellshock or wounds received in France.

OAK BLUFFS

The burial of Mrs. Elizabeth Frances Healis took place at Oak Bluffs last week. She died at the Cottage hospital in Somerville, aged 67 years.

Mrs. Fred W. Norton has been entertaining her sister, Miss Ethel B. Shepherd of New Bedford.

Miss Lucille Goldthwaite is visiting Miss Gabay at her cottage on West Chop road.

Next Sunday will be held the last Union musical service of the season. This will be in the Baptist church, at 4 p. m.

The Rush for 1920 Rentals Is On.

Frank J. Ryder, jewelry manufacturer of Attleboro, has rented the Lorenzo Luce house for next season.

Dr. John C. Bullitt of Philadelphia has rented Millbank, and Major Guy V. Henry, of the U. S. Army, has rented the Banks house. Dr. Louis Perry, head of Exeter academy, has rented for the coming season the house he is now occupying.

The Grace Cook house has also been let for next year.

Brigadier-General Merriweather L. Walker has returned from France and was with his family at Vineyard Haven. General Walker has been in command of the entire United States motor division in Europe. General Walker will be remembered not only for his services to his country abroad, where he received special recognition from the foreign governments, but for his service in Mexico under General Pershing.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Smith of Chicago have been visiting on the Vineyard. Mr. Smith is in the freight car construction business, but has oil interests which keep his spare time pretty well taken up. Mrs. George W. Shaw of Chicago, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Smith, came to the Vineyard last Friday. The Smiths are annual visitors to the Vineyard.

The stork last week visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Crossley (Martha E. Smith) in Fall River, leaving twins. Both are girls and have been christened Marjorie Christine and Marian Frances, the former after the wee girlie's aunt, Miss Christie Smith of Vineyard Haven. Mother and twins are reported doing well.

Does a horse love apples? Ask Sam Cronig. Sam picked up three bushels of apples, heaping up, tied up his horse securely (so he believed) and went about other business. Some hours later when he got back the horse had managed to get to the apples—and not an apple was left! So Sam says.

Hero Saves Drowning Child.

Arthur Jerlinus, second mate of the Uncatena, is in line for a Carnegie medal, having qualified as a hero last Sunday.

A child, on the Oak Bluffs wharf with its father, missed the parent and in its eager hunt failed to note danger, and walked off the wharf, falling into the water. The child had gone down several times, it is said, and bystanders, including the father shouted for assistance.

No second call was needed for Jerlinus. From his station on the steamer, which was doing Sunday duty, he rushed up the wharf and dived for the drowning child.

The little one was rescued.

Jerlinus is back on his job, as modest as ever.

Salvage Food from Wreck.

The storage place of the ship's food aboard the Port Hunter has at last been unearthed—or rather, “un-oceaned”—by salvagers who took out a quantity of foodstuffs, including barrels of corned beef, etc., all calculated to hit the high cost of living a solar plexus blow.

The “find” was the thing a number of the salvagers had been after; and though efforts were made to keep it a secret, somehow it got noised about, so the story goes, and when the finders went out very early the next morning to resume their work, they found the hatch was pre-empted by others who had gotten onto the tidings.

They Say This Fish Story Is The Honest Truth

Last year there was a story around that somebody caught “tinkers” that were too small to eat, and in a spirit of fun snapped rubber bands around their necks and threw them back into the water. Harry Peakes recently, so 'tis said, found in his catch a large mackerel, loop of a rubber band sticking out of its back, the rest ingrown in-to the flesh back of the gills!

Barnard C. Luce and family of Detroit are visiting the Vineyard, stopping with his mother, Mrs. Sarah O. Luce, Vineyard Haven.

OAK BLUFFS

Sunday was a day to be long remembered at the Methodist Tabernacle. In the morning Gov. Coolidge spoke a message of good cheer to a large audience. The Tabernacle was appropriately decorated with flags and flowers. A splendid chorus sang, the Governor was introduced by Judge Hayden. An applause greeted the governor at the close of his address.

In the evening Dr. J. S. Lansing occupied the pulpit. He took for his topic, "The Blind Leader of the United States." Dr. Lansing had gotten well started on his subject, when owing to the storm, the lights all went out. The doctor, equal to the occasion, kept on in the darkness until the rain made it impossible to hear him. Then a season of singing was enjoyed as lamps, lanterns and candles were procured for light. This was the closing session of the Camp Meeting. Next Sunday the Rev. George Peck will preach and the chorus will sing morning and evening.

A very delightful and inspiring meeting was the love feast at the Tabernacle on Sunday morning. The Sacrament of the Lord's supper was observed at 4 in the afternoon.

The Women's Foreign Missionary Auxiliary, held a Jubilee tea celebration of their 50th anniversary, at the Packard Home on Washington Ave. The lawn was set with dainty tables decorated with flowers. Tea was served by three charming young ladies in Japanese costume, Miss Alona Stanley, Miss Ester Case and Miss McNeil. Miss Hazel Mader sang twice very delightfully. Mrs. F. B. West was introduced by the president of the auxiliary, Miss Isabelle Trembley, who has read several letters from Bible Workers in India. The present president's mother was one of the founders of this Auxiliary fifty years ago. Late in the afternoon, Dr. Upham and Bishop Hughes arrived and were greeted by the Tabernacle choir led by Mr. Adams, in "Brighten the Corner Where You Are." The Bishop spoke a few words of congratulation to the ladies and was heartily applauded. All guests were requested to register in a book provided for the purpose. And the many guests left them best wishes for the successful year before the society.

Girl Volunteers Dive Autos Carrying Wedding Guests

The matter of motor cars for the wedding guests who came from the mainland last Saturday was splendidly handled, and things went off as smoothly as could be. Many cars were mobilized for the occasion, with a result that the visitors were well taken care of. Full credit for the arrangements goes to Norton & Bradley.

Misses Hazel Butler, Mae C. Briggs, Laura Hinkley and Mrs. John B. Luce volunteered to drive automobiles to transport the guests, and their services were accepted.

Couple Begin Honeymoon In Frankie Vincent's "On Time"

By Frank Chetwood Vincent

The On Time was the honeymoon boat. The craft lay up off Lambert's Cove, out of sight from the house.

The bridal couple set off from the shore in a fisherman's dory. I was rowing. Members of the family who were down on the shore threw confetti, and we started.

The couple had waited until most of the guests had departed to catch the 4.05 boat from Oak Bluffs; and then the couple themselves, instead of getting into an auto and starting on their honeymoon by way of the steamer, got into my dory to begin the trip.

We got out of the dory into the On Time, and I gave the engine a turn and we were off. We beat the Sankaty to Woods Hole. The couple got into a waiting auto and were off on their honeymoon.

A CARD OF THANKS

I desire to thank all my customers for their patronage this season. The results of their patronage have been felt not only by my local Vineyard Haven business, but to a tremendous extent by my Up-Island service. That I have made and held friends is I believe due to the fact that I have a consistent policy of right dealing at right prices.

To those of my patrons who leave soon for the mainland, I desire to express my thanks for past patronage and a desire to serve them next summer.

To all my patrons also I wish to express thanks equally deep, and a wish to continue to serve them.

SAWS THROUGH BARS

before the previous escape, made use of his time there to file away the window bar. The officers say the fling was undoubtedly done from the inside, and further that no filings were found, indicating "Left-hander" had done the work at his leisure.

Sunday night or early Monday there was a break in Edgartown. A store was entered and money taken.

"Lefthander" stowed away aboard the Uncatena on Monday morning early and did not show himself, it is stated, until Woods Holl was approached.

He came out and bought a ticket. It is said he was recognized, and the authorities claim that had the alarm been given at once they might have caught him shortly after he debarked from Woods Hole.

On the theory that "Lefthander" had vamoosed in the direction of Boston or Providence, the police in those cities were asked to be on the lookout for him.

"Lefthander's" first escape was from the Oak Bluffs lockup several weeks ago. An accomplice passed him a crowbar which he used to gain his freedom. His second escape was from the Edgartown keep, and the authorities have maintained the door was unlocked for him from the outside.

Sheriff Renear promptly reported the last escape to District Attorney Joseph T. Kenney, who is to make an investigation. An arrest of the accomplice is likely.

WEST TISBURY

Mr. and Mrs. Detra of Pennsylvania are guests of Miss Nellie Inslee.

Mrs. Elizabeth M. Fairchild has gone to East Greenwich, R. I., where she is to be house mother at the academy. Master Hollis Fairchild has accompanied her and will attend school there.

Miss Muriel Fairchild has returned to Littleton to teach another year.

The Adams sisters are entertaining friends from Philadelphia.

The burial of Mrs. Elizabeth Frances Healis took place at Oak Bluffs last week. She died at the Cottage hospital in Somerville, aged 67 years.

SOME OF OUR GRANGERS

As I walked out one day in Spring

I met our Overseer kind:

I said, "I've heard that milking cows

Is not quite to your mind."

"The meanest job beneath the sun

If you should seek the country o'er,"

Said he, "for when the task is done

Most of the milk is on the floor."

A sportsman next did meet my view

Who offered me some shells quite cheap.

And said, "I'm sick of guns and dogs

And now I think I'll keep some sheep,

And when the profits I count o'er

A bounteous harvest I shall reap."

A queenly nation next I met,

Our Executive Committee keen,

She asked of pitcher's quaint and rare

If any lately I had seen.

I promised to report to her at once

If information I should glean.

Our honest Treasurer next I met:

Of leather vests he soon did boast

And said: "If I a DIVER never,

I'd soon collect a host.

But the people on the Chop might think

A tidal wave had swept the coast."

Two sisters fair I next did greet

Who both in one voice did agree

That when the night came on a space

In forests they'd not be,

Lest goblins terrible of form

Be lurking 'neath each tree.

As I passed on and up the hill

I met the Master of the Gange

Said I to him: "you look quite slim"

Said he to me, "I need a change"

And when I saw the fields he tilled

I did not think it strange.

His pleasant wife I next did greet,

Our Lecture by the way,

I thought of how I'd heard it said

That she could "speak or sing or pray"

And would it not be well indeed

If each of us the same could say?

The next I met you all well know.

In guest of "sweets" he fairly flew,

The rough of speech you'll always find

In him a friend that's kind and true.

To those in need he freely gives

Full measure, heaped and o'er flowing too.

Young Frankie Luce I next did spy,

He looked as sturdy as an oak,

His father said, "I think by Fall

He will be in trim to "Ride the Goat"

And after that he'll surely want

A "Fliver" and a motor boat.

So homeward then I took my way

From meeting all these Grangers kind

I think that I've said quite enough

And trust you've all of thy same mind.

If of these rhymes you more desire

I'll rack my brain a few to find.

(signed) A GRANGER.
